THE PATEA SCENE

(By Aldor Films)

OUR COVER

OUR COVER—A nice sunny autumn scene on the banks of the mighty Wanganui near the Dublin Street bridge. The pretty lass in the big boots is Mrs Bronwyn Flegg.

BACK COVER—Gee! They have great fun on the equipment at Kowhai Park! It will not be long before Humpty Dumpty is finished, and don't forget that the commercial travellers have a big elephant to be installed in the near future.

ENGAGED

(All pictures contributed)

Top left—NEWPORT—BYRNE: Sandra Byrne, Melbourne, Australia, has announced her engagement to Colin Francis, son of Mr and Mrs Ron Newport, 2 Gibbons Crescent, Wanganui.

LEFT—SMITH—JAMES: Dianne Elizabeth, daughter of Mrs A. R. James and the late Mr James, 18 Caius Avenue, to David Gordon, son of Mr and Mrs C. C. Smith, 55 Pitt Street.

ABOVE—WOOD—ABEL: Morven, daughter of Mr and Mrs D. Abel, Kaitoke, to Don, son of Mr and Mrs I. K. Wood, Kirita, Thames.

WE GET AN ALL BLACK

Wanganui representative rugby star Buff Milner has become our 14th All Black. The Waiouru Army P.T. instructor has been chosen to tour South Africa as a second five-eighth — one of the three Maoris chosen for the side.

BELOW—Also representing Wanganui in the North Island trials were prop O'Connell and Spry the hooker. They are pictured going down in a scrum with prop Guy (in black jerseys).

What builds big bonny All Blacks? A swig of water from a beer bottle at half time. That's what!

SOCIAL ITEMS

RIGHT—COMING OF AGE. Nigel Alfred, son of Mr and Mrs R. A. Parker, 482 Wellington Road, Marton. (Richards, Marton).

FAREWELL PARTY

A farewell party was held in the Regency Lounge last month for Diane Willcox who leaves for Los Angeles next weekend.

Roving Camera

ABOVE—A Wanganui woman died after her Triumph Herald car crashed into a Land Rover on the notorious Ohakea turnoff corner last month. A few days later three more cars piled up at the same spot putting quite a few casualties into hospital. The bend has been the scene of a large number of smashes in the past, and far too many of them have involved loss of life.

BELOW—They were cooking something pretty hot at the Wanganui Engineering Works when we called a while back. We found them making a one-ton pour of cast iron on a giant gear wheel.

PLUNKET DINNER

Some more of the girls: Carol Thomas, Marion Hayes, Anne Trethewey, Natalie Woodley, Val Bing, Frances Gupwell, Jennifer Whalley (sec/treas), Ricky Dykstra and Mrs B. Langstone.

Wedding Album

GILES—HAYES: At St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Margaret Janet, youngest daughter of Mr and Mrs Doug Hayes, 73 Smithfield Road, Wanganui, to Murray, son of Mr and Mrs Giles, Rongotea. The attendants are Patricia Jeffreys, Perth, Australia, Max Hillas, Rongotea, and the bride's niece, Anne Gilroy, Wanganui. (Robuck Studios).

Wedding Album

DALTON—FABIAN: At Christ Church, Wanganui, Margaret Anne, younger daughter of Mr J. C. K. Fabian, S.M., and Mrs Fabian, Great North Road, Wanganui, to Thomas Douglas McKenzie, elder son of Mr and Mrs Douglas Dalton, "Strome", Napier. The attendants are Mrs Felicity Heath, matron of honour (Wellington), sister of the bride, Mrs Barbara Higgs (Wellington), Miss Cecily Harris (Rotorua), Mr Colin Pettigrew, best man (Timaru), Murray Cranswick and Michael Kean (both of Napier). Future home, Waipukurau. (Robuck Studios).

WRIGLEY-SHERLOCK: At St. Mary's Catholic Church, Lynette, elder daughter of Mr and Mrs M. O. Sherlock, 119 Harrison Street, to William Damian, only son of Mr W. N. Wrigley, 10 Ward Street, Wanganui. The happy couple were attended by Sue Mildenhall, matron of honour, Bonnie Old, Barbara Sherlock, sister of the bride, junior maid, David Archer, best man, Mangamahu, and Royce Tunbridge, all from Wanganui. Future home, Whangaehu. (Robuck Studios).

BROWNING-GLENTWORTH: At Christ Church, Wanganui, Lynette Adrienne, eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs W. Glentworth, 11 Bristow Street, to Rex Wayne, youngest son of Mrs E. Browning, 8 Cook Street, New Plymouth. The attendants, from left, are Bruce Stone, Wanganui, Athol Browning, brother of the groom, best man, New Plymouth, Brent Glentworth, brother of the bride, Wanganui, ring-boy, Margaret Glentworth, sister-in-law of the bride, Hawera, matron of honour, and Wendy Glentworth, sister of the bride, Wanganui. Future home, Morikau Station. (Robuck Studios).

HERE AND THERE

ABOVE—CHAMPIONS FOR CHARITY. In our last issue we published a photograph of four little girls who had worked to raise some money to help the I.H.C. Society. Just recently we were called to take a photograph of some children who were presenting the proceeds ($13.00) of a shop day they had organised to the Foundation of the Blind. And you may have guessed it. We were going to take the picture of the same group of girls. Pictured presenting their money to Mr Earl Nelson (chairman of the Wanganui Branch, Foundation for the Blind) are Susan Walker (at whose place, Caius Avenue, the shop stall was operated), Gay Wrigglesworth, Toni Wilkie and Karen Mackie.

BELOW—INSTITUTE MEETING. Pictured at the annual general meeting of the Wanganui Branch of the Real Estate Institute are, from left, back: T. Fogden, T. Burnham, W. H. Dustin, P. Mitchell, A. Mitchell, B. Battell, T. Russell. Front: C. C. Buckley, R. A. W. Barnes (national secretary, Auckland), A. S. Cayzer (national president, Otago), P. A. Buckley (Wanganui president) and S. Harkness (national councillor, Marton).

CATHOLIC BALL

BELOW—Young escorts wait patiently for their partners to be presented.

TOP RIGHT—Alison and Susan Wilkinson make their debut on the arms of their very proud father.

RIGHT—Kathleen Hall curtsies to Cardinal McKeefrey.

NOVELTY HOCKEY

Some outlandish garb was seen on the hockey fields at Gonville Domain when local Methodist Bible Classes held a match to raise money for repairs to Tupau College in Tonga.

ABOVE—We can't quite pick the girls, but the boys are Paul Redshaw, Bruce Reid, Leslie Crossley and Butch Brown.

BELOW—Bob Wallis stoops low as he whips the ball ahead.

OPENING OF NEW BOUTIQUE

Attractive Lorraine Collings shows pants and blouse to advantage

A large gathering of invited guests was present for the grand opening of a new boutique in Wanganui. Situated in the new AMP building, Upper Victoria Avenue, Mode Le Grand is a business which manufactures made-to-measure garments for femmes, from young to elderly. All a prospective customer needs to do is to take along a picture of the garment they require and... eh voila! The experienced staff can make anything with great, professional skill. TOP LEFT—A maxi coat with a mini skirt underneath — one of the garments made by Mode Le Grand and modelled by Paulane McLean.

Comperre for the evening was Mrs Heagney

LAND AND INDUSTRIES EXHIBITION

The country came to town with a grand parade last month as a prelude to the official opening (by P. M., Keith Holyoake) of the Royal Agricultural Society's annual "Land and Industries Exhibition".

ABOVE—Drum-Major Koorey of the Queen Alexandra's Own Band salutes Mr Holyoake and other members of the official party.

THE GRAND PARADE

Last year's Pastoral Queen, Janet Craigie, tossed a loaf of bread (baked in the shape of the Woolmark brand) to the Prime Minister . . .

. . . which Mr Holyoake promptly bit into (for the benefit of photographers)

Pride of place went to an old traction engine

A procession of some real old-timers of the tractor world

The traction engine was pulling a six-ton thresher

Alan Dicker's logging truck was in the act too

Something a bit more modern in the harvesting line

Mr Holyoake went over to offer condolences when Eric Lawrence's 'dozer' broke down

No one minded the dampness too much

Richard Handley and Co. manhandled bales of hay in the parade

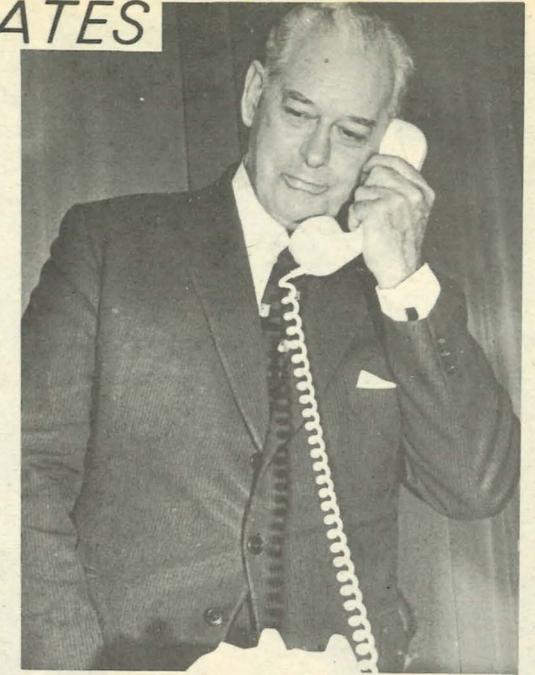

The modern touch in farming — a whirley-bird sprayer

The parade was certainly different from the run of the mill

MR HOLYOAKE OFFICIATES

Mr Holyoake started the jet boat marathon (from Mercer to Wanganui) by telephone

The Prime Minister came to Wanganui to officially open the exhibition and later took up his time viewing the many displays. He was late leaving the show for his aircraft and Mrs Holyoake stayed on longer in Wanganui to see more.

LEFT—The traditional Maori challenge by Kohe Webster as Mr Holyoake and Mr J. H. Rutherford (president of the R.N.Z.A.S.) enter the Maori court at the Museum.

Mr Holyoake paused and examined at length, the laminated plastics and formica display of S. G. Harvey Ltd.

PEOPLE AT THE FAIR

ABOVE—A team of spinners from Masterton: Mesdames S. Foreman, J. Hosking, D. Sandall and E. Foreman.

RIGHT—Newsomes' pastrycook Eric Bell wraps a loaf.

 BELOW—Gonville's Doris Smith was a finalist in the pie-baking contest.

 RIGHT—Showman John Maybury hands a prize to a lady who had just lifted her husband off the floor.

TRUDEAU'S VISIT

One of the highlights of the Land and Industries Exhibition was the brief visit of the Canadian Prime Minister, Pierre Trudeau. After a late arrival and a swift look around, Mr Trudeau presented the winner's sash to the winner of the Golden Fleece competition.

ABOVE—The public were not given much of a look at Mr Trudeau, as he was continually surrounded by jostling newsmen and officials.

ENTERTAINMENT

We don't know whether it was the give-aways or the compere but the John Maybury shows were popular

Fleece-to-garment competitions kept visitors entertained each day

Finals of a karate tournament attracted a large audience on the final night of the show

GREAT DISPLAYS

Mr Bob Selby, manager of Dalgety Loan, receives the prize for the best large display, from Mrs Holyoake

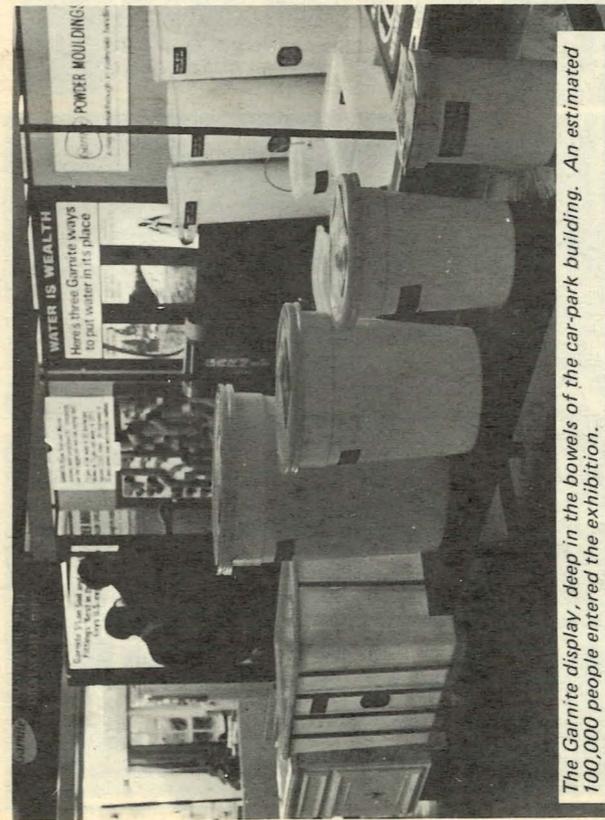

Carr Signwriters were awarded the rosette for the best small exhibit. Mrs Holyoake hands the award to an employee.

The public were given the right to do the judging at a cattle competition held at the racecourse

Admiring their display are Messrs Frame and Millward of United Flexible Tubing

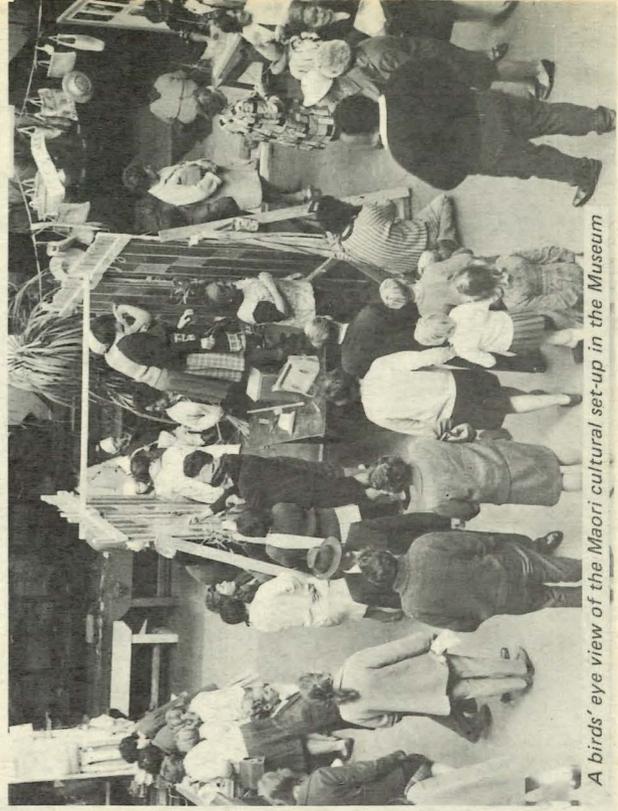

The Garrite display, deep in the bowels of the car-park building. An estimated 100,000 people entered the exhibition.

A big attraction for some were the antiques in the Art Gallery

A Maori carver chips away at a log with his adze

A birds' eye view of the Maori cultural set-up in the Museum

Our advice to Steve Carswell is to get up a new act . . . or retire

POP CONCERT

Considering the number of people in Wanganui for the Exhibition week, very few of them were interested enough to attend the "Swinging 70's" pop show. In fact we would guess that most who did go were perhaps more interested (family, etc.) in the Pastoral Princesses, who were being introduced by Barbara Glazewski. But anyway, not many people were present to see Tony Williams, etc. We heard a few complaints backstage about a "dead audience" — well when you have a compere still flogging the same old dreary act he's had for ages, and cracking hairy old, old, old jokes (the one about the Maori who bought a chainsaw to cut down his trees and then "hey what's that noise", for one instance) well, the crowd is sure to curl up.

Brian Hand's orchestra was one of the redeeming features of the show

Marise McDonald sings . . .

. . . and "long tall Texan" Jim McNaught does likewise

They play very well, but we are starting to get to know what Wanganui's Jacob Manning Group is going to play next too.

PASTORAL QUEEN CONTEST

National interest was created in the Land and Industry's Pastoral Queen contest, with the eight contestants being representative of all parts of the country.

BELOW—Mary Robertshaw from Eastern Districts.

HOCKEY — THE FAMILY GAME

Hockey in Wanganui has always seemed to be a family affair. Without going back too far we can remember all of the McIntyre's that played, the members of the Lint's family ... many still active, the Adams' boys, etc. Well, we took our camera out to the Gonville Domain the other day when Rangers B played High School. And would you believe that six of the eleven players in the Rangers side are brothers? Leslie was away when we took the ABOVE pic, but the Rees brothers above are, from left: Donald, Barry, Richard, Colin and Alex. And to take this family story a little further ... another member of the Rangers' side, Keith Smith, was the father of one of the boys in the opposing team, High School. Keith and son, Brett, are pictured at RIGHT.

PURE WOOL

(as in carpets)

Well nobody can say that Les Stroud doesn't have pure wool in the carpets he sells at Gilroy Furnishers. Why, we even saw them driving the sheep in and stripping the fleeces offa them last month. And what's more . . . they even had the best shearers in the country there to do the job.

ABOVE—A busy Friday morning and shoppers wait patiently as a truck load of sheep is unloaded into the "Herald's" alleyway. From here the sheep were taken next door into Gilroys.

BELOW—Gilroy's furniture shop looks more like a shearing shed as two "guns" whip off the sheeps' clothing. They are doing it blindfolded too.

HERE AND THERE

ABOVE—Hospitality Wanganui, and the Wanganui branch of N.Z. Travel and Holidays Association, were responsible for three large display boards extolling the virtues of our city, being placed on show in the 246 building in Auckland. Pictured with the display are Messrs Jack Spencer, Tim Hurley, Bryan Silk and Ross Glennie.

TABLE TENNIS SCHOOL

Young table tennis players from many parts of the country were in Wanganui during the May holidays for the annual National junior coaching school. ABOVE—The youngest player at the school was little Angela Brackenridge, Whangarei.

LEFT—Coach Dick Moffat, of Wellington, gives a few tips to Elizabeth Nicholson, Whakatane. BELOW—A view of the school at the Gonville Town Hall.

JET BOAT MARATHON

Several hundred spectators braved the elements and lined the Wanganui River bank to watch the finish of the 240-mile jet boat race from Mercer, in the Waikato, up the Waikato River to Lake Taupo, and then from Taumarunui to Wanganui.

RIGHT—Coming ashore after their big win — Harry McKellow and Stan Fisher, and “Easy Rider”.

BELOW—Third place went to Wanganui’s Rod Coleman and Dave Russell in “Miss Suzuki”.

Cold and wet . . . but hundreds waited near the Motor Boat Club's slipway to see the race

PRESTIGE WIN

Coach Stewart chats to his lads at half-time. At this stage we were down 3-0.

Even the Vienna Boys' Choir came to watch the rout

Stand by to see greater things. Wanganui's Rugby has "come right". They proved this by soundly beating a highly fancied Wellington team by 13-3. And a very meritorious win it was too. Our players virtually tied Wellington down in their own territory for most of the game and hammered them into submission. Three of our star players left the field early in the game but this made no difference to our players' determination. Great playing boys, and congratulations to our new coach, Mr Stewart (the man who made so much out of the Taranaki team a while back).

Wellington's only points — a try by Stephens early in the game

A valued new asset to Wanganui's Rugby this season is first-five Bruce Patrick. Here he flips the ball back as he runs into trouble.

PUSSES ON PARADE

Pedigreed and commoners . . . but all very important. These were the competitors in the pussy cat stakes, staged by the Wanganui Cat Club in the city last month. We picture here some of the animals and the people who love them.

The best male Burmese bites Mrs G. B. Bassett's (Auckland) earring.

LEFT—Judge Mrs Leyland with the best Seal point spey.

RIGHT—Mr A. Rowlands came from Christchurch to judge.

WOOL BOARD WORKSHOP

In Wanganui recently, conducting classes in a Wool Board workshop, was the Board's education officer, Miss Judith Antcliff. Miss Antcliff is pictured (ABOVE) discussing her work with Wanganui businessmen, Messrs A. Bardsley, P. Fraser and J. Brereton. BELOW—Employees of several Wanganui fabric specialists undergo an exercise in fashion co-ordination under Miss Antcliff's supervision.

ABOVE—Wanganui's cake-maker-in-chief must surely be Harry Chappell. He was responsible for this massive effort baked for the DIC's 86th birthday celebrations. RIGHT—"Photo News" was on the scene when natural gas was piped through to Wanganui and burnt for the first time. ## Collegiate School

The vast spread of the Wanganui Collegiate School as seen by the aerial camera of Beryck Dalcom in a Dalcom Aviation aircraft. On this and the succeeding pages we feature the "View From Above" as supplied by Mr Dalcom.

Exhibition Site

The site of the big Land and Industries exhibition as seen from the air. In the immediate foreground is St. Mary's Catholic Church, the Majestic Theatre building, etc., and Maria Place running up to the exhibition area. The museum and car park building at left housed exhibits, behind here was the fairground, at top is the art gallery and its displays, centre are two huge marquees which housed cars and machinery and the Memorial Hall, at right, was also filled with displays.

The River and Bridges

In this shot the aircraft would be positioned above Shakespeare Cliff and the view is out to the mouth of the Wanganui River and the sea. Hipango Terrace and Putiki are to the left, the city and Gonville to the right. The nearer bridge is the new Wanganui city bridge and the extra width is shown graphically in the span at right, as compared with the old spans across the water.

ROVING CAMERA

ABOVE—THEY CAN HAVE IT. George Formby used to sing happily "When I'm Cleaning Windows", but for our money they can have it. Spotted these two dangling happily in their boson's chairs on the Government Life building recently. Bet they're well insured!

BELOW—BEAUTY AND THE BEAST. It's a fair cow — that's what they reckon up at the Selwyn Beauty Salon since the butcher downstairs hung his bull on the verandah. A cattle on a hot tin roof could make people steer clear of the beauty treatment, if they thought this's how they would look afterwards.

Some of the members at the function

Men's doubles winners: J. Ford and B. Greener

Combined doubles winners were Mrs L. Campbell and Mr O. Welsh

Tennis Closing

Mr Mark Lampe, patron of the Gonville Tennis Club, officiates with the presentation of trophies when the club closed its season last month.

ABOVE—Ladies' singles champion was Mrs June Sloan.

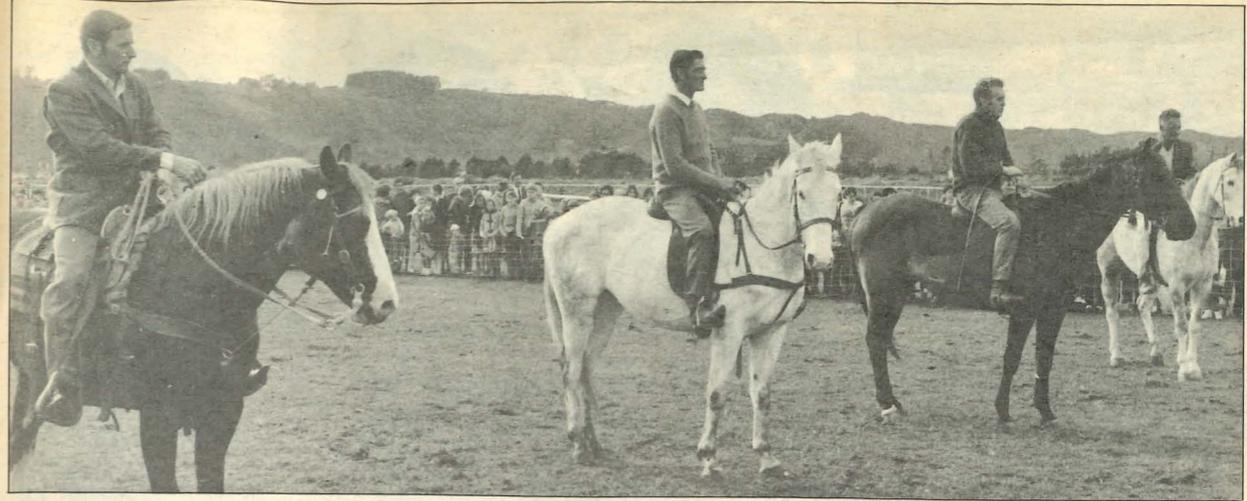

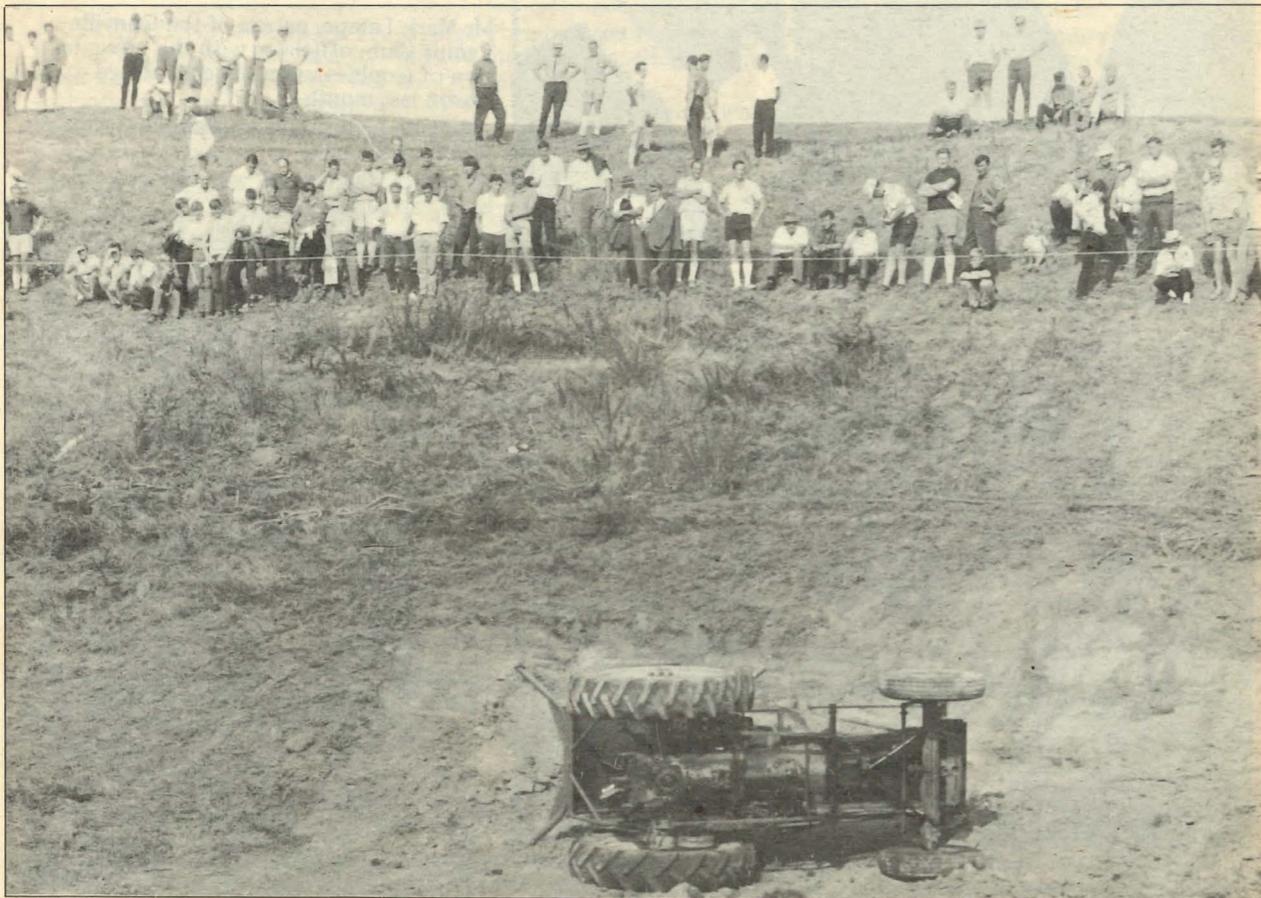

BELOW—Miss J. Sloss won the ladies' handicap singles.

DEMONSTRATIONS

A big field day at the Wanganui East showgrounds was one of the sidelights during the big Land and Industries exhibition. Various demonstrations were held outdoors there. These were photographed by Beryck Dalcom. ABOVE—Members of the dog obedience club put their canine friends through their paces. BELOW—A lot of interest was taken in the demonstration of tractor safety. Maybe the message will get across one of these days, because there are still too many tractor deaths in New Zealand.

One of the most interesting demonstrations photographed by Mr Dalcom was the one featuring the Poronui quarter horses and cattle handling. Developed in the USA the quarter horse is bred especially for cattle handling. ABOVE—Evan Raynor and co wait to demonstrate the capabilities of their quarter horses.

This one sure has got the steer bamboozled. Very quick and intelligent, quarter horses normally work without a bit. Their manoeuvrability is fantastic.

GIFTS FROM STORE

We've had a couple of calls to Hays-Wright Stephenson's departmental store recently, and on both occasions we were to photograph people being given something by the manager, Mr Bob Morgan. Now we know why they call the place the "Home and Gift Centre".

ABOVE—Winner and placegetters in a slogan-writing contest line up to receive their prizes from Mr Morgan. Mrs Shirley Eades is receiving first prize of a voucher for an air trip for two to one of the four main centres and Mesdames H. J. Philpot and N. White have each received a year's supply of stationery.

BELOW—In another competition, to produce at the store the oldest English coin, a genuine piece of the London Bridge (sold to somebody in the USA) was won by Mrs Bert Henderson, Toi Street. The coin she presented was from the 16th century we believe.

ROAD CYCLING

The recent road cycling fixture between Wanganui and Palmerston North was marred somewhat by the late withdrawal of New Zealand representative, Max Vertongen. Very cold and wet conditions prevailed for the race of 25 miles out from the Durie Hill school.

TOP—Officials and riders line up against the icy wind.

ABOVE RIGHT—First to start in the junior and senior combined section were Hylton and Anderson (Wanganui) and Graham (P.Nth).

PIX FROM OUR READERS

Pan And The Ducks

A most suitable setting for the statue of Peter Pan and his little animal friends is the foreshore of Virginia Lake, on Wanganui's St. John's Hill. A popular spot for people to stroll in the sun, the lake is to become even more of a focal point in the future when the proposed floating coloured fountain is installed.
